Advent

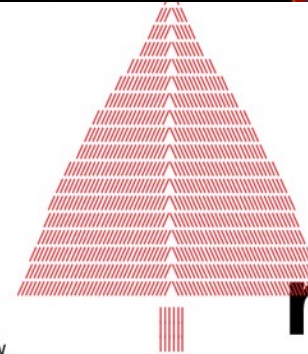

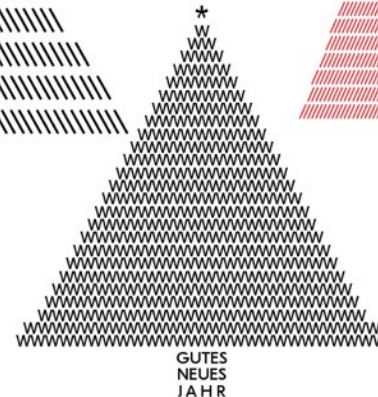

The collage consists of 12 individual photographs arranged in a grid. The top row shows the initial setup and rehearsal, including a person kneeling to place star-shaped props on the floor, a group of people standing in a circle, and a camera operator filming. The middle row features a control room with a monitor and a guitar, a conductor leading a choir, and a person placing props. The bottom row includes a large group photo of the choir, a wide shot of the studio with equipment, and a close-up of a video editing software interface showing multiple tracks and a waveform.
